Land Acknowledgement

East West Players recognizes that the United States occupies Native Land. East West Players and the David Henry Hwang Theater are privileged to reside on the home of the Gabrielino/Tongva peoples, the traditional land caretakers of Tovaangar (Los Angeles basin). We pay our respects to Honuukvetam (Ancestors), ‘Ahihirom (Elders), and ‘eyoohiinkem (our relatives/relations). To learn more about what this means and the land in which your home occupies, you can visit: https://native-land.ca/

While we uphold the caretakers of the land we are on, we also recognize the work that needs to be done to stand in solidarity with current and future Tongva peoples. We encourage our EWP friends and family to support the Gabrielino Tongva Springs Foundation in its efforts to provide community programs focused on education and cultural preservation. To learn more about their work, you can visit: http://gabrielinosprings.com/wpsite/

We are grateful to live as guests on the land of the Tongva, and we continue to fulfill our responsibility of unlearning and relearning the past, present, and future of Tovaangar/Los Angeles.

MISSION

Founded in 1965, East West Players is committed to raising the visibility of the Asian American experience by presenting inventive world-class theatrical productions, developing artists of color, and providing impactful youth education programs.

East West Players is proud to be the nation’s first producer of Asian American artistic works and one of the country’s oldest theaters of color.

VISION

EWP’s vision is to inspire and advocate for a world free of racism and discrimination through transformative artistic works.

EAST WEST PLAYERS’ DAVID HENRY HWANG THEATER

The theater is located at the historic Union Center for the Arts in Little Tokyo Historic Neighborhood.

The Union Church was established in 1923. EWP has called it home since it was refurbished into the Union Center for the Arts in 1998.

TICKET SERVICES

The box office opens 90 minutes prior to all showtimes for ticket sales.

All tickets are considered sold at the time of purchase, and once the sale is final, we do not offer refunds. All tickets must be paid for at the time of reservation.

ACCESSIBLE ACCOMMODATION

If you require special seating or elevator assistance, please let the box office staff know at the time of ticket purchase. Assisted listening devices are also available at the box office on the day of the performance.
