The Healing Foundation

A national Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander organisation that provides a platform to amplify the voices and lived experience of Stolen Generations survivors and their families.

The Healing Foundation works with communities to create a place of safety, providing an environment for Stolen Generations survivors and their families to speak for themselves, tell their own stories, and be in charge of their own healing. They also promote trauma-aware, healing-informed practice to help government, policymakers, and workforces understand their role in intergenerational healing.

Asking the question: are you (or is the person) of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander origin?

Inner North West Primary Care Partnership

This training supports employees working in health and/or community services to understand why it is important to ask all clients "Are you (or is the person) of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander origin?" when first registering with your service and/or during client review processes.

The training also provides further information & resources to assist you to better engage with members of Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander communities and provide more culturally appropriate service responses.
