

PAPER CITY

HOUSTON
JUNE
2023

Road
Trip

Best
Design
Shops
Across
Texas

Round
Top
Wrap

UP

The Fearless
New Bride

WINDOW Dressing

The new Window Shop has opened in Hollywood Square

Susanna Moldawer's new online vintage and antiques store, Window Shop, now has a brick-and-mortar companion. Located on West Alabama in Hollywood Square, the 1,000-square-foot store showcases her highly personal selection of inventory that spans periods and styles from Louis XVI to 1970s modern. "Even though I think people are used to buying online, when it comes to things for their home, I do think they like to see them in person," she says. A former design editor and stylist for Veranda and House Beautiful, Moldawer shops area estate sales as well as flea markets in Europe for furniture and objects, having inherited a love of interiors from her mother, well-known Dallas designer Jan Showers. Inventory sells fast but at last glance included such gems as a signed and numbered Swedish Fish vase by Edward Hald for Orrefors and a set of French mid-century sycamore chairs with original upholstery. Moldawer shares the sublime space with JaphetBates Collective, a new art consultancy started by interior designers and longtime friends Juli Japhet and Lisa Rowe-Bates. The Collective focuses on works by emerging, mid-career, and established artists who are not well known or represented in the Texas market. The two are hoping to make buying and collecting art a fun, friendly, and elevated experience with art displayed in Moldawer's glamorous residential setting.

Art and antiques mingle at Window Shop.

Juli Japhet
Lisa Rowe-Bates

The first show is a solo with works by L.A. artist Jason Trotter (through the fall). Window Shop, Hollywood Square, 3637 W. Alabama, Suite 120, windowshophome.com; japhetbatescollective.com. Rebecca Sherman

Susanna Moldawer