

FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF NIGERIA

NATIONAL ACTION PLAN 2022 – 2026

(Developed pursuant to the recommendations of the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, adopted at the World Conference on Human Rights in Vienna, Austria in 1993

Preface

Nigeria with an estimated population of over two hundred million (UN 2021 estimate) is Africa's largest democracy. The journey to the current democracy, popularly called the Third Republic, has been a chequered one. Following the overthrow of the Alhaji Shehu Usman Shagari Regime by the military juntas, human rights generally, especially fundamental freedoms, took the backstage. Things peaked however, with the annulment of the June 12th Elections in 1993; the political imbroglio and crisis that ensued; and the execution of Ken Saro Wiwa, which caused sanctions to be imposed on the country by the international community, especially the EU countries and the USA.

The above scenario birthed the National Human Rights Commission of Nigeria in 1995 and the present democracy, popularly called the Third Republic, in 1999. The restoration of democracy, and a new Constitution – the 1999 Constitution, gave people the opportunity to once more, enjoy their fundamental freedoms. However, human rights are more encompassing than the traditional freedoms. They are indivisible and mutually reinforcing and span every facet of human existence – including business.

It is in recognition of the foregoing that a lot of laws have been enacted since 1999 to promote, protect and enforce human rights in Nigeria. These laws are in the areas of:

- Civil and political right
- Economic, Social and Cultural Rights
- Women and Children's Rights
- Rights of Vulnerable Persons
- Environment and Sustainability and
- Business and Human Rights.

In addition to the above, the Administration of President Muhammadu Buhari is committed to building an enduring democracy, marked by good governance, probity and anti-corruption, rule of law and respect for human rights. It put in place a robust Economic Recovery and Growth Plan and recently the National Development Plan (2021 to 2026) for the attainment of the SDGs and the 2030 Agenda. Presently there is the Open Government Partnership (OGP) which is aimed at economic growth and improved service delivery in governance. It is in furtherance of this that the National Action Plan (NAP) on the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights in Nigeria (2022 – 2026) has been developed, as a guiding document for the promotion, protection and enforcement of human rights in Nigeria, following the expiration of the initial NAP 2009 – 2013.

This National Action Plan reinforces the commitment by the present administration in particular, and the Government of the Federal Republic of Nigeria, to the promotion and protection of all human rights as guaranteed by the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and other international and regional instruments, as well the Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria. It has been carefully crafted to meet international requirements in the development of Action Plans as prescribed by the Vienna Declaration and Platform for Action, while taking into consideration our local realities within the country.

Abubakar Malami, SAN
Honourable Attorney-General of the Federation, and Minister of Justice
Federal Republic of Nigeria

CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND TO NIGERIA'S NATIONAL ACTION PLAN 2022 - 2026

1.1 A BRIEF HISTORY OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN NIGERIA

The history of human rights in Nigeria predates the advent of colonial rule when human rights and fundamental freedoms were recognized in the traditional Nigerian societies. The idea of rights was not, therefore, conceived in the modern notion. Such values as right to family, kin and clan membership, freedom of thought, speech, belief, right to enjoy private property and right to participate in governance of the affairs of the society were jealously guarded. However, freedom from discrimination, right to association and equality rights were hardly respected because it was believed that all persons were not born equal as there were sons and daughter of the land, outcastes and freeborn etc.

In areas where the Sharia legal system was firmly entrenched, especially in the Northern parts of the country, human rights and fundamental freedoms were specifically protected and guaranteed in accordance with the tenets of Islam which hold justice and equity in high esteem. When Colonialism came, it brought with it a new set of rights but largely denied Nigerians political and economic rights. It was not until 1922, through the Clifford Constitution, that limited franchise was introduced for the first time in Nigeria by the British Colonial government. The struggle for better political participation by early Nigerian nationalists led to enhanced political rights in the pre-independence constitutions culminating in the Lyttleton Constitution of 1954. In the economic sphere, our agricultural products were hijacked to sustain industries in the west and upon the discovery of oil, the people's right to manage their natural economic resources was lost to the colonial masters. The succeeding governments of the day have entrenched this culture since the end of colonial rule.

The entrenchment of fundamental rights and freedoms in Nigeria in the modern sense could, however, be traced to the Bill of Rights, 1958, which culminated in Chapter III of the 1960 Independence Constitution and those that followed. The inclusion of a chapter on human rights in the Constitution followed the recommendations of the Willink Commission. The Independence Constitution of 1960 and the Republican Constitution of 1963 had provisions for the protection of fundamental human rights, while the 1979 and the 1999 Constitutions went further by providing a Bill of Rights in Chapter IV as well as Fundamental Objectives and Directive Principles of State Policy in Chapter II which recognises Economic, Social and Cultural Rights but made them non-justiciable. The entrenchment of human rights provisions in our Constitutions was aimed at creating a society which protects political freedom as well as the social and economic well-being of Nigerians. It seems the disparity between chapter II and IV of the constitution has adversely affected the progress in the development of civil liberties and socio-economic rights in Nigeria.

Despite the guarantee of fundamental rights and liberties in the Nigerian Constitutions since 1960, the Country has had the misfortune of military interventions. This further compounded the situation and had far-reaching effects on the promotion and protection of democratic values and fundamental freedoms among Nigerians. Before the new dawn of democracy in Nigeria in 1999, successive military regimes ignored fundamental rights and freedoms of Nigerian citizens. This large-scale denial of human rights reached its peak between November 1994 and June 1998 under the military administration of General Sani Abacha.

The abysmal situation of human rights under the military regime resulted in Nigeria becoming a pariah State in the international arena and the country was put on the agenda of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights for five consecutive years. At the peak of this scenario in 1996, the environmental activist, Ken Saro-Wiwa and other eight Ogoni activists were executed. This resulted in the Commonwealth and some other international bodies and organisations severing either or both economic and diplomatic ties with Nigeria. Nigerians, led by human rights civil society groups and professional bodies, engaged the military in the struggle for a better society, governed by Constitutionalism, the Rule of Law, Social Justice and Respect for Human Rights. This finally resulted in the Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria, 1999, and the emergence of democracy and democratic institutions in 1999.

Two major global developments have taken place since the commencement of the second millennium, which have impact on the NAP. The first of these refers to the United Nations Millennium Declaration, signed in September 2000, and which committed world leaders to combat poverty, hunger, disease, illiteracy, environmental degradation, and discrimination against women. The millennium Development Goals, MDGs, are derived from this Declaration. The MDGs projected 2015 for the realization of its targets and indicators to monitor progress from 1990 levels. The second is the creation of the Sustainable Development Goals in 2015, a universal call to action to end poverty, protect the planet and improve the lives and prospects of everyone, everywhere. The 17 Goals were adopted by all UN Member States in 2015, as part of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development which set out a 15-year plan to achieve the Goals.

There is no gainsaying the fact that democratic rule since 1999 has not automatically translated to realisation of basic freedoms and democratic values. The adoption of National Action Plan (NAP) 2009-2013 is an admission of that fact and therefore justifies the need to put the various NAP programs in place for the progressive realisation of human rights in Nigeria. This current effort is geared towards deepening the promotion and protection of human rights in Nigeria.

1.2 THE CONCEPT OF THE NATIONAL ACTION PLAN FOR THE PROMOTION AND PROTECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN NIGERIA, 2022 - 2026

The National Action Plan for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights (NAP) is the response of the Government of Nigeria to the recommendations of the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, adopted at the World Conference on Human Rights in Vienna, Austria in 1993. This requires that,

"Each state considers the desirability of drawing up a national action plan identifying steps whereby the state would improve the protection and promotion of human rights"

The Government of Nigeria has fully associated itself with the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action, both of which emphasize that all human rights are universal, indivisible, interdependent and interrelated; and that democracy, development and respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms are interdependent and mutually reinforcing. In developing a National Action Plan, governments are called upon to:

- (a) Assess the current measures in place to protect and promote human rights
- (b) Identify areas that need improvement
- (c) Commit to improving the monitoring, protection and promotion of human rights.

1.2.1 Objectives

The Nigerian National Action Plan is an integrated and systematic national strategy to help realize the advancement of human rights in Nigeria. In addition, it is:

- (a) An audit of the human rights situation in Nigeria, identifying areas in need of promotion, protection and improvement
- (b) A commitment to concrete measures that can be adopted to build and entrench a culture of human rights for the enjoyment of all
- (c) A framework for sustained and coordinated ways for the country as a whole to monitor, promote and protect human rights in the next five years (in the short run) and ten years (in the long run)
- (d) A basis for collaboration and support by civil society organizations, the international community and development partners.

The NAP presents an opportunity for identifying and agreeing on areas of cooperation between Government Departments, the Private Sector, Civil Society Organisations in general, and other role players, so that together, all stakeholders can improve the monitoring, protection and promotion of human rights in the country. It will be used by the Government, organs of the Civil Society and the International Community to monitor and assess the observance of human rights, and to gauge the commitment of the Government to the promotion and protection of human rights in the Country.

1.3 DEVELOPING NIGERIA'S NATIONAL ACTION PLAN FOR THE PROMOTION AND PROTECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS

The process for the NAP of 2022 - 2026 began with the expiration of the tenure of the first NAP in January 2014. Consultations commenced between the National Human Rights Commission and Ministries, Departments and Agencies (MDAs) as well as civil society groups, targeted at reviewing the implementation of the previous NAP and documenting the lessons learnt. The said lessons learnt, form a major guide in the development of the NAP 2022 - 2026.

1.3.1 Consultative meetings with Ministries, Departments and Agencies of Government

From January to December 2014, the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) hosted consultations with all Government Ministries and Justice Sector institutions. The purpose of these consultations was to explain the expiration of the first NAP, request MDAs to submit reports on the annual implementation of NAP 2009-2013 and document lessons learnt in the implementation of the previous NAP. The MDAs were also intimated with the obligations of the respective ministries, agencies and institutions in the process of developing the new NAP that would succeed the previous one.

These consultations continued over the years and in 2018, elaborate consultations were carried out in the six geo-political zones of the country where inputs from State MDAs were harnessed to enrich the content of the NAP. Although activities on the NAP slowed down in 2019 due to logistic challenges, they picked up in 2020 and final consultation with MDAs took place in January and February 2021 via virtual platforms in conformity with the COVID-19 guidelines and protocols.

1.3.2 Consultations with Civil Society

The Commission held several consultations with civil society organisations from 2015 to 2018 some of which were with the MDAs. The consultations were aimed at documenting the experiences of the civil society in the implementation of the previous NAP and seeking their input in the development of the successor NAP. These consultations provided a forum for identifying and agreeing on areas of improvement, inadequacies and emphasis to guide development of the NAP 2022 - 2026.

From December 2015 – April 2016, the National Human Rights Commission embarked on one of the largest public education programmes since its inception, the National Human Rights Public Awareness Programme. This programme was implemented with the support and collaboration of members of the National Assembly. The programme was implemented in all the 36 States of the Federation. Specifically, the programme was targeted at communities, towns and villages outside state capitals. The purpose of this project was to engage communities frequently referred as “grassroots”, first, on the appreciation of their rights, and the workings of the National Human Rights Commission. Much of the concerns and findings from interactions with these communities have been included in the NAP current document.

1.3.3 Adoption and the Post Adoption Phase

The consultations on NAP 2022 - 2026 were completed in the last quarter of 2020, although they spilled over slightly to January and February 2021. After that, the consultative draft was cleaned up into a final draft and submitted to the Federal Executive Council of Nigeria through the Attorney General of the Federation for consideration and approval as Nigeria’s policy document on Human Rights. The approved NAP will be printed, disseminated to stakeholders and deposited with the Office of the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights.

1.4 ORGANISING STRUCTURES AND CONSULTATIVE PROCESSES FOR DRAFTING THE NATIONAL ACTION PLAN FOR THE PROMOTION AND PROTECTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN NIGERIA

1.4.1 Steering Committee

In April 2014, the Federal Government of Nigeria formally inaugurated the Steering and Coordinating Committees of the National Action Plan for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights. Members of the Steering Committee include:

- The Attorney General of the Federation – Convener
- Chairman, Senate Committee on Justice, Human Rights and Legal Matters
- Chairman, House of Representatives Committee on Human Rights
- Chairman, National Human Rights Commission

1.4.2 Coordinating Committee

- The Solicitor General of the Federation – Convener
- Executive Secretary, National Human Rights Commission
- Special Adviser to Hon. Attorney-General & Minister of Justice
- Managing Partner, Legal Resources Consortium

CHAPTER TWO

2. NATURE OF THE RIGHTS CONTAINED IN THE DOCUMENT

2.1 CIVIL AND POLITICAL RIGHTS

- Right to Life
- Right to Dignity of the Human Person
- Right to Personal Liberty
- Right to Fair Hearing
- Right to Private & Family life
- Freedom of Thought, Conscience and Religion
- Freedom of Expression and Press

- Business and Human Rights
- Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia, Intolerance and Rights of Key Population
- Terrorism and Insurgency
- Rights of Older Persons
- Indigeneship, Settlership And Self Determination

These are all emerging areas of challenge that were left out in the first NAP. They have been incorporated as cross cutting issues in all sections. However, Business and Human Rights has been captured as a separate chapter to conform to the format prescribed by the United Nations Working Group on Business and Human Rights (UNWGBHR) for the development of a NAP on Business and Human Rights.

The adoption of the Millenium Declaration and the Millenium Development Goals as a development paradigm in the year 2000 added further impetus to Nigeria's planning process. Invariably, Nigeria has had to domesticate both the MDGs and its successor global development Agenda, the Agenda 2030 and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), for implementation within the context of its economic and social realities.

In addition, in an attempt to make a deliberate effort to address ignorance of rights which has been identified as one of the factors militating against the full enjoyment of human rights, the country has put in place a national strategy on Human Rights Education (HRE), to promote knowledge, skills, behaviour and attitudes and build a culture for the respect of human rights. This has been done using the platform of the World Programme on Human Rights Education (WPHRE) and captured under the chapter on Sustainable Development using SDG 4.7 which offers a framework and reporting obligation on HRE.

CHAPTER THREE

3. FRAMEWORK FOR THE EXAMINATION OF RIGHTS

3.1 PRINCIPAL SOURCES OF HUMAN RIGHTS IN NIGERIA

4.12 RIGHT TO FREEDOM FROM DISCRIMINATION

4.12.1 Constitutional Obligations

S.15 (2) National integration shall be actively encouraged while discrimination on the grounds of place of origin, sex, religion, status, ethnic or linguistic association or ties shall be prohibited

S.42. (1) A citizen of Nigeria of a particular community, ethnic group, place of origin, sex, religion or political opinion shall not, by reason only that he is such a person:

(a) be subjected either expressly by, or in the practical application of, any law in force in Nigeria or any executive or administrative action of the government, to disabilities or restrictions to which citizens of Nigeria of other communities, ethnic groups, places of origin, sex, religion or political opinions are not made subject; or

(b) be accorded either expressly by, or in the practical application of, any law in force in Nigeria or any such executive or administrative action, any privilege or advantage that is not accorded to citizens of Nigeria of other communities, ethnic groups, places of origin, sex, religion or political opinions.

(2) No citizen of Nigeria shall be subjected to any disability or deprivation merely by reason of the circumstances of his birth.

(3) Nothing in subsection (1) of this section shall invalidate any law by reason only that the law imposes restrictions with respect to the appointment of any person to any office under the State or as a member of the armed forces of the Federation or member of the Nigeria Police Forces or to an office in the service of a body, corporate established directly by any law in force in Nigeria."

S. 42(2) No citizen of Nigeria shall be subjected to any disability or deprivation merely by reason of the circumstances of his birth.

The Nigerian Legal system does not make express provision for the concept of racial discrimination as it currently exists. The prohibition of discrimination on the basis of race may be read into the Constitutional provision prohibiting discrimination based on place of origin. This provision is in fulfilment of Nigeria's regional and global obligations in the fights against racial discrimination.

Accordingly, the Government recognizes that everyone in Nigeria has the right to be protected under the law and should not be subjected to discrimination or segregation as a result of the following factors:

- Gender
- Race
- Ability or disability as the case may be
- Tribe
- Religion
- Ethnicity
- Status
- Health status of any other factor for that matter.

4.12.2 International Obligations

Our International Obligations are guided by:

- The African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights
- African Charter on the Rights and Welfare of the Child
- Protocol to the African Charter on the Rights of Women
- Protocol to the African Charter on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities in Africa
- The Universal Declaration of Human Rights
- The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights
- The International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights
- The International Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Racial
 - Discrimination
- The International Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Discrimination Against Women
- The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child
- Convention on Rights of Persons with Disability
- International Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Racial Discrimination
- Discrimination (Employment and Occupation) Convention

The international Conventions enshrine the principle of non-discrimination, which means that –

- All human beings are created equal and are endowed with equal rights
- All their rights should be protected and promoted equally regardless of the sex, language, religion, social and economic status, national and social origin or on grounds of disability

4.12.3 Challenges

- Discrimination on grounds of ethnicity and religion
- Continued existence of gender discrimination
- Inequality and discrimination exist on the basis of:
 - Disabilities
 - HIV/AIDS status
 - Age
 - Economic status
- Harmful traditional practices such as harmful widowhood practices and disinheritance of women.
- The Caste System in some States and communities
- Non-domestication the ICERD
- The misinterpretation and misapplication of the Same Sex Marriage Prohibition Act 2014
- Discrimination as a result to sexual orientation

CHAPTER FIVE

ECONOMIC, SOCIAL AND CULTURAL RIGHTS

5.1 Scope or Rights

The implementation of the following rights is discussed in this Section:

- Right to Work
- Right to Shelter
- Right to Health
- Right to Food
- Right to Water and Sanitation
- Right to Education
- Right to Culture

In considering the above Economic, Social and Cultural (ESCR) recourse is had to the provisions of Chapter II of the Constitution, titled The Fundamental Objectives and Directive Principles of State Policy. They are generally considered to be non-justiciable under the Constitution, unlike the Fundamental Rights under Chapter IV of the Constitution, having regard to the provision of its Section 46.

However, given the inter-dependence and inter-relatedness of all human rights wherein the realization of a justiciable right is dependent on the protection of the so called non-justiciable right, this National Action Plan gives equal importance to all categories of rights. In addition, the ESC rights contained in the Chapter 2 of the Constitution are equally provided for under the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights (ACHPR), which is now domesticated under CAP 10 LFN 1990. Article 7(1)(a) of that Charter confers upon every individual the right to an appeal to competent national organs against acts violating his fundamental rights as recognized and guaranteed by conventions, laws, regulations, and customs in force. Accordingly, it would seem that these rights are enforceable through competent national organs, including the courts. Further, as has been decided by the Indian Supreme Court, these rights can be enforced via the Fundamental Rights. Thus, for example, the rights to food, housing, education, etc., have been interpreted to be included in the right to life, in the sense that they are components of the quality of life. Also, these rights can now be enforced through the African Commission for Human and Peoples' Rights, the African Court of Human Rights, when established, and possibly, through the ECOWAS Court.

Over time, several mechanisms have been developed for enforcing these in court through judicial review of administrative actions, originating summons and applications for enforcement of Fundamental Rights. Having regard to the nature of its obligations to respect, protect and fulfill Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, government recognizes the need to establish necessary institutions to work towards the progressive realization of these rights.

5.2 RIGHT TO WORK

5.2.1 Constitutional Obligations

S.17(3) "The State shall direct its policy towards ensuring that-

- (a) all citizens, without discrimination on any group whatsoever, have the opportunity for securing adequate means of livelihood as well as adequate opportunity to secure suitable employment;*
- (b) conditions of work are just and humane, and that there are adequate facilities for leisure and for social, religious and cultural life;*
- (c) the health, safety and welfare of all persons in employment are safeguarded and not endangered or abused;*
- (d) there are adequate medical and health facilities for all persons;*
- (e) there is equal pay for equal work without discrimination on account of sex, or on any other ground whatsoever;*
- (f) children, young persons and the age are protected against any exploitation whatsoever, and against moral and material neglect;*
- (g) provision is made for public assistance in deserving cases or other conditions of need; and*
- (h) the evolution and promotion of family life is encouraged.*

5.2.2 International Obligations

Our International Obligations include:

- Article 23 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights which guarantees everyone the right to work, to free choice of employment, to just and favourable conditions of work, and to protection against unemployment.
- Article 6 of the Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, which sets out: the right to form trade unions and the right to strike; the right to social security and social insurance; and the right to an adequate standard of living
- International Labour Organisation Conventions ratified by Nigeria.
- Article 5 of the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights, which recognizes the right to work under equitable and satisfactory conditions, and the right to equal pay for equal work

5.2.3 Challenges

- High level of unemployment
- Existence of discrimination against women and persons with disabilities in employment
- Discrimination on the basis of HIV/AIDS Status
- Discrimination on the basis of ethnicity/State of origin

- Increase in the number of Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) and the consequent loss of livelihood
- Poor understanding and implementation of the Pension Reform Act

CHAPTER SIX

6.0 THE RIGHTS TO PEACE, PROTECTED ENVIRONMENT AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

The following rights are discussed in this Section:

- Peace
- Protected Environment
- Sustainable Development

In addition, Human Rights Education has been discussed using the framework of SDG 4.7 in order to promote knowledge and skill on human rights and advance a culture for the respect of rights.

6.1 RIGHT TO PEACE

6.1.1 Constitutional Obligations

Government has the obligation to ensure that all Nigerians are given equal and meaningful opportunity to attain their maximum potential. These and other instruments at the international, regional and sub-regional levels are guided by the principles of:

- A people driven process of policy formulation and programme implementation.
- Peace and Security of all; and
- Nation building

S 15(1): The motto of the Federal Republic of Nigeria shall be Unity and Faith, Peace and Progress.

6.1.2 International Obligations:

CHAPTER EIGHT

BUSINESS AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Background

The United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (UNGPs) gives a framework on how government and businesses are to protect and respect human rights, including what mechanisms are to be put in place to reduce, mitigate and redress business-related violations. This Action Plan seeks to operationalise these principles in practical, real and specific terms, exploring how government discharges the Duty to Protect in the context of business and how businesses operationalize the Duty to Respect and more importantly how to ensure Access to Remedy for individuals or communities adversely affected by business operations. It also encourages adoption of effective grievance mechanism by companies to address human rights issues.

The plan provides clear benchmarks for measuring progress and achievements in the implementation process by allocating roles and responsibilities for each stakeholder group in order to advance human rights and business in Nigeria. It therefore seeks to develop strategies for implementing human rights and business imperatives in Nigeria. It reinforces the three Pillars of the UNGPs which are:

- 1) The State duty to protect human rights
- 2) The corporate duty to respect human rights
- 3) Access to Remedy

The Plan is therefore developed along these three pillars. It outlines actionable items by the Federal Government of Nigeria to address business-related human rights abuses, focusing on institutional backing of appropriate agencies, ensuring FPIC, stakeholder identification and analysis, employment, casualization and contract employment, land acquisition, compensation, gender, mobilization, sensitization and awareness creation, capacity building, resettlement, community development, community consultation and engagement, security, conflict resolution, reporting and monitoring compliance, community responsibility, reward and recognition and exit strategy.

Pillar 1

State Duty to Protect Human Rights

The Nigerian government is the primary duty bearer for the protection and progressive realisation of human rights in Nigeria. As part of this duty, government is obligated to regulate business practices and activities within its territory, as well as prevent, mitigate and address adverse impacts of business operations through policies, legislation, regulation, adjudication or other measures. In line with State Duty to Protect, there should be legislative and policy coherence to ensure that state human rights obligations are complied with and applied effectively.

Actionable items

A. Establishment of a National Working Group on Business and Human Rights (NWGBHR)

The government shall establish a National Working Group on Business and Human Rights (NWGBHR) to coordinate all activities of agencies that are involved in dealing with human rights and business-related issues. Membership of the Working Group shall include the following:

- i) Ministry of Justice
- ii) National Human Rights Commission (NHRC)
- iii) Ministry of Trade, Industry and Investment
- iv) Ministry of Mines and Power
- v) Ministry of Petroleum Resources
- vi) Ministry of Environment
- vii) Ministry of Labor and Productivity

- viii) Ministry of Niger-Delta
- ix) Ministry of Environment
- x) Consumer Protection Council (CPC)
- xi) Corporate Affairs Commission (CAC)
- xii) National Environmental Standards Regulatory and Enforcement Agency (NESREA)
- xiii) National Oil Spill Detection and Response Agency (NOSDRA)
- i) Niger-Delta Development Commission (NDDC)
- ii) National Agency for Drug Administration and Control (NAFDAC)
- iii) Standard Organization of Nigeria (SON)
- iv) Nigerian Investment Promotion Council (NIPC)
- v) Nigerian Bar Association (NBA)
- vi) National Association of Chambers of Commerce, Industry, Mines and Agriculture (NACCIMA)
- vii) National Electricity Regulatory Commission (NERC)
- viii) Federal Airports Authority of Nigeria (FAAN)
- ix) Manufacturers Association of Nigeria (MAN)
- x) Nigeria Labour Congress (NLC)
- xi) Non-Governmental Organization with focus on Human Rights and Business, gender, environment and development.
- xii) Any other relevant organization.

This composition will be replicated in the states. The Working Group will have the following responsibilities, among others:

- i. To determine the capacity needs of businesses and other agencies in the area of business and human rights.
- ii. Conduct capacity-building trainings for different stakeholders on human rights and business using the UNGP framework.
- iii. Design and agree on a format for reporting human rights and business by stakeholders.
- iv. Review the reports periodically and provide technical support for stakeholders in their area of need.
- v. Drive the process of reviewing the NAP periodically
- vi. Periodically assess and support the establishment of grievance mechanisms in companies.
- vii. Oversight companies' human rights Due Diligence activities and Human Rights Impact Assessment.
- viii. Convene an Annual Business and Human Rights Forum to review developments in the field.
- ix. Support research and academic work on Business and Human Rights.

B. Legislation and Policies

Government shall improve human rights protection in business through legislation, policy initiatives, programmes and similar interventions in the following ways:

- Enforce and review existing laws or enact new legislation that require businesses to respect human rights in their operations.

- Ensure that all businesses carry out Human Rights Impact Assessment before commencement of business while those already in business should do so within 2 years.
- Mandate businesses to communicate how they address human rights impact of their operations.
- Review the Trade Union Act (2005) to address the challenges of freedom of association, the right to collective bargaining and the right to strike actions.
- Enact Whistleblower Protection Laws at the Federal and State levels to protect whistleblowers from any form of victimization or retaliation and encourage employees of both public and private sectors to report cases of human rights abuses and violations without fear of losing their jobs.

The Federal Government of Nigeria and all the state governments to include in all contracts, Memoranda of Understanding and other business-related policy documents, a clause that clearly spells out the human rights obligations of the parties including possible sanctions for violations. Lead Agencies to realize this include the Ministry of Trade, Industry and Investment, Ministry of Finance, Ministry of Budget and National Planning, Corporate Affairs Commission, Nigerian Investment Promotion Council.

C. Human Rights Due Diligence

Regulatory bodies and agencies shall ensure the conduct of Human Rights Due Diligence and Human Rights Impact Assessment in all business operations.

The Central Bank of Nigeria shall ensure that in every loan agreement in all banks, as part of the conditions for the loan facility, there is a clause that spells out that the loan receiver for business is under obligation to respect human rights in all operations.

Similarly, specialized banks and other financial institutions such as Bank of Agriculture, Bank of Industry, and Nigerian Agricultural Insurance Corporation etc. must ensure that as part of their risk assessment and due diligence the client must show that it has a human rights policy and that it has taken measures to conduct human rights due diligence and human rights impact assessment.

D. Free, Prior and Informed Consent

Free, Prior and Informed Consent (FPIC) of the host community must be ensured to enable a community have the right to give or withhold consent to proposed projects that may affect the lands they customarily own, occupy or otherwise use. FPIC is recognized by the jurisprudence of international treaty bodies. To do this, government will use participatory methods of stakeholder identification and analysis to ensure that before the commencement of any project. In this regard, it is necessary to build the capacity of community leaders and decision makers to negotiate with businesses and ensure that their rights are protected at all times.

E. Stakeholder Identification and Analysis

Government shall ensure that companies conduct a thorough and detailed Stakeholder Identification and Analysis (SIA) in their area of operation to provide invaluable data for sustainable stakeholder consultation and engagement. This enables companies to be aware of the operational environment and sensibilities and helps operational decision-making, as well as implementation of community engagement strategy and prioritizing.

F. Environment

When acquiring land for development or business, government must ensure the conduct of human rights conflict and environmental impact assessment.

In respect of environmental hazards and workplace safety, there will be periodic monitoring and inspection of company premises, operations and surroundings of manufacturing, construction, and extractive industries among others to ascertain their compliance with environmental standards.

G. Employment

In relation to employment, the National Working Group on Business and Human Rights will develop Guidance Notes for companies to manage their employment processes in compliance with human rights standards to ensure nondiscrimination and prevent child labor. In doing so, the issues of gender, and disability concerns will be taken into consideration pursuant to relevant provisions of extant Labor Laws.

H. Casualisation and Contract Employment

The Ministry of Labour and Employment should take steps to curb the incidence of Casualisation in labour as well as hazardous workplace practices. Accordingly, it should strengthen its monitoring and implementation processes to give effect to applicable laws. Where the laws are not in compliance with human rights standards, they should be reviewed. Adequate education of the public should be carried out to empower them to demand for a letter of contract/engagement from employers irrespective of the nature or duration of the engagement.

I. Gender

There will be deliberate measures to mainstream Gender Considerations in Business and Human Rights. Government and businesses should ensure that in the award of scholarship or other benefits, employment, contracts and compensation, special consideration should be taken to cater for the interest of women. Accordingly, in all meetings, consultations, dialogue or negotiation, women should represent themselves.

In addition, labour practices that are discriminatory to women with respect to employment, promotion and incentives, will be addressed and eliminated.

J. Resettlement

Efforts will be made to minimize the negative impact of resettlement. Emphasis must be on the livelihood system of affected communities. Under business and human rights, Nigeria's handling of the resettlement of Bonny and Finima during the construction of the Nigeria Liquefied Natural Gas Project has been acknowledged as a best practice case study.

Where resettlement for business becomes necessary, government and investors will be guided by best practices such as the Principles of Resettlement enunciated by the African Development Bank and the Asian Development Bank.

K. Mobilisation, Sensitisation and Awareness Creation

Government, through its agencies, will engage in massive mobilization, sensitisation and awareness creation on the NAPBHR. The awareness creation will be strategic and involve the three tiers of government.

The National Working Group on Business and Human Rights will enter into negotiation with Manufacturers Association of Nigeria and related bodies to ensure compliance with this plan. It will also carry out robust sensitization of the public to empower them to demand for a letter of contract/engagement from employers irrespective of the nature or duration of the engagement.

Considering the importance of education in Human Rights

Protection, government at all levels will develop policies that advance Business and Human Rights Education. This may include introduction of courses on Business and Human Rights in tertiary institutions and the introduction of scholarships, fellowships, research grants, to contribute to knowledge in the area of human rights and business. The National Working Group on Business and Human Rights is responsible to liaise with Ministry of Education and relevant parastatals to realise advancement of Human Rights Education as a channel to enhance government protection obligation.

L. Reward and Recognition as Incentive

Reward and recognition system is necessary to ensure that businesses get benefits for implementing the Business and Human Rights Action Plan. To promote this, government through the National Working Group on Business and Human Rights is urged to work out incentive packages for businesses that comply with the provisions of NAPBHR.

M. Capacity Building

The following capacity building needs have been identified:

- Training of Judges to mainstream the norms and tenets of human in their decisions when considering business related human rights cases.
- Training business operators to be able to develop a coherent, robust and implementable human rights policy; establish, maintain and monitor their grievance mechanisms. Also, build their capacity on monitoring and reporting compliance with the UNGPs.

- Regulatory agencies should be strengthened to enable them monitor and evaluate the implementation of NAPBHR and also provide remedies when violations occur.
- Community leaders and decision makers should be capacitated to negotiate with businesses and ensure that their rights are protected at all times.

Governments at all levels will develop policies that will meet these needs. This may include introduction of courses on Business and Human Rights in tertiary institutions and the introduction of scholarships, fellowships, research grants, to contribute to knowledge in the area of human rights and business.

N. Security

When businesses conduct risk assessment, the focus is mainly on the risk posed to their operation within the community without considering the risk their operations pose to communities. This makes them design their security apparatus without community input and consultation.

In addressing the issue of security and human rights in business operations, the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights provides a useful guide. To this end;

- Government shall fulfill its obligation as the primary provider of security.
- Communities will be involved in the design and management of company security.
- Government shall provide human rights training for security providers, logistic support and general oversight.
- Government shall monitor and ensure that human rights are protected in the provision of security.
- Security arrangement will be all inclusive and offer protection to business facilities as well as employees, suppliers, contractors and the community.

CORPORATE RESPONSIBILITY TO RESPECT HUMAN RIGHTS

The Corporate Responsibility to Respect human rights implies that companies must avoid infringing on the rights of individuals and communities but ensure that they do not undermine State ability to protect human rights. They must show willingness to put in place measures to address human rights abuses when they occur. This responsibility obligates compliance of Corporations or other business entities with human rights principles and norms in the course of business as well as prevention or mitigation of adverse impact of their operations. It is different from Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) which is voluntary. Failure to respect human rights should attract sanctions.

Actionable Items

A. Policy

Every company will have a clear, simple and understandable human rights policy within their value chain that reflects their commitment to promote human rights in their operations. This policy shall guide all operations of the business and should be conspicuously displayed either on the website, gate or reception area of the company.

In the Policy, the rights of staff should be made clear as it relates to respect for human rights. Staff should also be trained on various aspects of human rights especially as it pertains to company operations. It is expected that the policy will clearly allocate roles and responsibilities and state the department(s) in the company that has responsibility for human right issues. This will be applicable to all companies in relation to size, scope of operations and type of business

B. Human Rights Due Diligence

Businesses operating in Nigeria will ensure that they conduct Human Rights Due Diligence from onset, which should identify possible human rights violations arising from their operations. Human Rights Due Diligence should address negative human rights impact which may be linked directly or remotely to business operations, products or services. Where a state directly engages in business, government assumes dual roles- i.e. the International Human Rights obligation to Protect is retained; and having delved into business, it also has additional obligation to Respect Human Rights from a corporate perspective.

C. Reporting Human Rights Compliance

Businesses operating in Nigeria will be obligated to report on their human rights compliance, annually. The National Working Group on Business and Human Rights will work closely with various regulatory agencies to incorporate human rights reporting and monitoring template in their regulatory framework. Appropriate sector specific template and checklist will be developed for this with input from relevant stakeholders in respective sectors.

D. Capacity Building

Capacity building is critical in ensuring corporate responsibility to respect human rights. Businesses will build the capacity of their staff in carrying out human rights due diligence and implementing their human rights policy. The NWGBHR will be available to provide the requisite expertise where necessary.

E. Grievance Mechanisms

Businesses are obligated to have an Operational Level Grievance Mechanism. A system shall be put in place for the monitoring and reporting of the activities of the grievance mechanism. This will be established in line with the Eight Effectiveness Criteria of the UNGP and in consultation with the target group. A system shall also be put in place for the monitoring and reporting of the activities of the grievance mechanism to identify issues and areas that require administrative, policy or legislative intervention.

F. Community Relations

Businesses must have a Community Relations Guideline. This will be developed in conjunction with the community stakeholders. The Community Relations Guideline shall draw from the report of the Human Rights Due Diligence (HRDD) and Human Rights Impact Assessment (HRIA). The company is also expected to conduct Peace and Conflict Impact Assessment (PCIA) as part of their entry strategy. The extent of these assessments will depend on the kind of business the company is involved in.

The Community Relations Guide shall provide for such things as employment, community development, contracts, scholarships etc. To ensure inclusiveness, gender consideration and broad representation of all interest shall be taken into account.

G. Partnerships

Businesses are encouraged to forge strong and sustainable partnerships and collaborations with any agency, individual or organization that will provide the needed support for the progressive realisation of human rights in their area of operations. Part of this partnership and collaboration include the use of the media and engagement with different government agencies.

PILLAR 3

ACCESS TO REMEDY

Access to remedy for communities or persons who are victims of adverse impact of business operations can be through the following framework;

- i. State-Based Judicial Mechanism
- ii. State-Based Non-Judicial Mechanism
- iii. Non-State-Based Grievance

Access to remedy includes legal, administrative, judicial and non-judicial remedy.

State Based-Judicial Mechanisms

State-Based Judicial Mechanisms are faced with a number of challenges associated with general justice delivery in Nigeria. These challenges include, delay in the judicial process, overbearing political interference, lack of judicial independence, judicial corruption, low level of judicial awareness of the UNGPs etc.

To address these challenges, the NWGBHR shall carry out intensive advocacy to the Judiciary in order to effect the issuance of 'Practice Directions' that will facilitate speedy resolution of cases of human rights violations by businesses. There will also be a continuous sensitisation of judges and magistrates on the Action Plan. In addition, Alternative Dispute Resolution approach will be encouraged.

The NWGBHR shall organise Consultative Engagement Sessions for Judicial Officers at various levels on addressing the problem of delay in resolving business related human rights cases.

The NWGBHR shall encourage Strategic Litigation, not just municipally where these businesses are carried out, but also in the home countries of the respective multinational companies in instances where the violation is caused by transnational corporations. Such litigation would raise awareness on corporate liability for human rights abuses. The Working Group will liaise with the Nigerian Bar Association to explore possibilities of Legal Aid to indigent persons or communities who are adversely affected by business operations but unable to pursue remedy due to cost.

State-Based Non-Judicial Mechanism

These consist of State Agencies which, though non judicial, exercise statutory powers and regulatory functions pertaining to Business and Human Rights. They have the potential of addressing the greatest number of human rights violations by businesses because they exercise statutory powers and regulatory functions.

They include the following:

- i. National Human Rights Commission (NHRC)
- ii. Public Complaints Commission (PCC)
- iii. National Oil Spill Detection and Response Agency (NOSDRA)
- iv. Consumer Protection Council (CPC)
- v. Nigerian Communications Commission (NCC)
- vi. National Administration of Food and Drug Control (NAFDAC)
- vii. National Bio-Safety Management Agency
- viii. National Environmental Standard and Regulatory Enforcement Agency (NESREA)
- ix. Standards Organisation of Nigeria (SON)
- x. Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN)
- xi. Corporate Affairs Commission (CAC)
- xii. Nigerian National Petroleum Corporation (NNPC)
- xiii. Department of Petroleum Resources (DPR)

In order to improve the effectiveness of State Based non-judicial mechanism, the following plan of action will be implemented:

- Capacity-building for these agencies to enable them appreciate the human rights component of their mandate and enhance their ability to offer remedy pursuant to their statutory functions
- Strengthening of the Institute for Peace and Conflict Resolution (IPCR) through capacity building and close partnership to enable the organization to work more effectively with communities, state and businesses to resolve conflicts efficiently.
- Strengthening of the National Human Rights Commission to discharge its quasi-judicial responsibilities in addressing human rights violations by businesses; and rendering of effective remedy
- Convening of periodic meeting of regulatory bodies whose functions are relevant.
- Mapping of these bodies to clearly identify them and properly delineate their mandates so that their operations may be streamlined for speed and efficiency in relation to business and human rights related remedy.
- Scale up of Community Sensitization on the functions of various agencies.
- Collation of reports and feedback on progress made by State Based non Judicial

Non-State Based Grievance Mechanism

The law cannot take care of all the complexities of the relationship between the community, the state and corporations. This therefore necessitates the adoption of some non-state-based grievance mechanisms to fill the gaps. These include all the centres and agencies established by companies, NGOs, Media, CSOs, Labour Unions, Faith-Based Organisations, communities and other sundry agencies. Some of them are formal and some are informal in their operations. Some specialize in advisory services and the provision of information, while others are mainly concerned with referral and monitoring.

IMPLEMENTATION STRATEGY

Specific activities will be designed from the Initiatives contemplated in this plan by the National Working Group on Business and Human Rights in consultation with respective sectors, business operators, relevant agencies of government, Civil Society Organizations and Development Partners in realization of each of the three Pillars.
