'PUMPKIN DROP & EGG SWAP' OFFERS SAN ANTONIO RESIDENTS A SUSTAINABLE WAY TO REPURPOSE HALLOWEEN PUMPKINS

San Antonio, TX – Local author and thriller writer Mary Romasanta is partnering with The Point Food Truck Park, with sponsorship from SEG Engineering and Structure Builders, to host the Pumpkin Drop & Egg Swap—a unique event designed to give Halloween leftovers a new purpose! On Saturday, November 2, 2024, from 12–3 PM, the San Antonio community is invited to bring their unwanted pumpkins or Jack-O-Lanterns to Point Park in exchange for a half-dozen farm-fresh eggs, donated by local farmers, while supplies last.

All donated pumpkins will be composted and repurposed as nutrient-rich chicken feed, supporting local farms and reducing waste. This eco-friendly event offers a sustainable solution for post-Halloween pumpkin disposal while promoting green practices within the community.

“We’re turning pumpkins into purpose,” says Mary Romasanta. “By hosting the Pumpkin Drop & Egg Swap, we’re helping the community take a simple action that supports our local farmers, the environment, and even the chickens!”

Event Details:

- What: Pumpkin Drop & Egg Swap
- When: Saturday, November 2, 2024, from 12–3 PM
- Where: The Point Park, 24188 Boerne Stage Rd, San Antonio, TX 78255
- What to Bring: Unwanted pumpkins or carved Jack-O-Lanterns
- What You Get: Half a dozen farm-fresh eggs (donated by local farmers, while supplies last)
- What Happens to the Pumpkins: All pumpkins will be composted and used as chicken feed

This family-friendly event is a great opportunity to connect with the community, reduce food waste, and enjoy a fun, sustainable activity. The event is first-come, first-served, so attendees are encouraged to arrive early to swap their pumpkins for fresh, locally sourced eggs. Mary Romasanta will also be on-site signing copies of her latest books, The Eternal Secret and Infestation, which launch this Halloween.
