

Dear Majority Leader Schumer,

Our appeal is straightforward: please bring the Kids Online Safety Act (S. 1409) to a vote.

We have paid the ultimate price for Congress’s failure to regulate social media. Our children have died from social media harms. Platforms have done everything and anything to maximize young people’s engagement – including designing products that send our kids down dangerous and deadly rabbit holes of pro-suicide and eating disorder content; enticing them to attempt dangerous challenges; facilitating sextortion schemes; and implementing design features that make children more vulnerable to predation, drug dealers, and cyberbullying. These are not isolated incidents but rather a harrowing reflection of a broader, systemic mental health crisis that demands immediate legislative action.

Last week, many of us traveled to Washington to witness firsthand the historic hearing with social media CEOs. That hearing made clear for the American people what we understand all too well: Unregulated social media has been a disaster for young people’s privacy, safety and wellbeing. Platforms will never make meaningful changes unless Congress forces them to. The urgency of this matter cannot be overstated. If the status quo continues, more children will die from preventable causes and from social media platforms’ greed.

We respectfully ask you to leverage your considerable influence and leadership to prioritize the safety of American children and bring the Kids Online Safety Act to a vote in the U.S. Senate.

With deepest respect and urgency,

Dianne Grossman of NJ (Mallory Rose Grossman, forever age 12)
