

Mentor eliminates unfilled shifts with on-demand pay

“This has been a massive incentive for our tutors to take extra lessons on.”

- Mary Lonsdale, CEO

A workforce of teachers doing extra-hours

Mentor Education, London’s top tutoring agency, relies heavily on full-time teachers taking on extra work for them to meet demand.

In the summer holidays, when more frequent tutoring is possible, many teachers choose not to work extra hours. This means Mentor misses out on revenue as they struggle to find high quality tutors to teach their pupils.

62%

reduction in unfilled shifts

62% less unfilled shifts once Level was introduced!

On-demand pay cut the time between work and pay from up to 6 weeks, to as little as 6 minutes! This almost instant pay cycle elevated the reward for work and motivated teachers to tutor more over the summer holidays. This resulted in almost no shifts going unfilled and boosted revenue for the company significantly.

